Principal Message

"Reading is the gateway skill that makes all other learning possible."

Motivating students to read is one of those agony-ecstasy tasks every parent and teacher faces sooner or later. When we instil the desire to read and nurture, it enhances the development of their spoken language skills, their ability to express themselves verbally. The more, the children read, the better they become at reading. Make reading a leisurely, enjoyable activity, but regular reading practice which helps to build fluency, vocabulary and understanding of progressively more advanced texts. Instilling regular habits and working together as a family to meet goals will get your child on the right track of reading. In order to succeed we must read. Happy Reading
